

Summer 2020 Residency Term Call for Applications

Deadline // November 1, 2019 at 11:59 PM EST

Application Fee // $25 - $40 // based on application date

All applications are submitted digitally at www.PlySpace.org

For complete information, please visit www.PlySpace.org

PlySpace is an artist-in-residence program based in Muncie, Indiana, and is led by the Muncie Arts & Culture Council. Dedicated to offering visual artists, writers, performers, designers, and other creative individuals time and space to investigate and pursue their own practices, it also serves as a platform for experimentation and provocation by catalyzing conversation and collaboration with various Muncie communities. PlySpace facilitates opportunities for residents to engage with the public through partnership and programming that is tailored to their area of interest. PlySpace is funded in part by a grant from the National Endowment for the Arts.

PlySpace Residents:

- Stay on the premises at PlySpace for 4-12 weeks
- Work on a personal project of their choosing
- Work with a community collaborative partner and complete a community-based project while in residence (5-10 hours per week)

PlySpace Residents receive:

- Provisional access to the Ball State University School of Art facilities
- 24-hour access to personal studio spaces
- Personal living space with a community kitchen
- Travel and living stipends totaling $1000
- Selected Resident Fellows receive additional living and project funding up to $2000
- Access to local professional artists, development opportunities, and a supportive creative community in Muncie
- And more!

All applications must be submitted digitally before the November 1st deadline.

Applications received by mail will not be considered.

PlySpace is located at 608 E. Main Street in Muncie, Indiana
W: www.PlySpace.org E: hello@PlySpace.org

BALL STATE UNIVERSITY
School of Art

