

Art is for everyone, and by everyone. The inclusion of people from every corner and background of the world, regardless of circumstances or socioeconomic means allows for more representation in the arts. The opportunity to have a free and easily accessible platform to perfect and present artwork allows for more accessibility in the arts. And the ability to build a global network of artists to share their talents and skills with one another allows for more outreach in the arts.

Culturally Arts Collective is an international, nonprofit organization that works for tangible reform for arts accessibility and representation through education, exhibition, outreach, and professional development.

Culturally Arts Collective is an international non-profit organization dedicated to helping artists reach their full potential regardless of social, economic, and cultural background. Since our foundation in 2020, our mission has been to provide free arts education, exhibition, and community outreach to individuals passionate about the arts. Our main objective is to provide diverse representation in the arts to build a more global platform for artists focusing on art as visual activism and art as community activation. Over the past year, Culturally Arts Collective has worked with over 3,500 artists across 100 countries.

Every exhibition season, Culturally Arts Collective's curatorial activism program features an exhibition with a social justice theme, highlighting creatives and stories historically marginalized from the arts. Past exhibits included themes of women's rights, climate justice, Native American history, and more.

Culturally Arts Collective strives to provide these backgrounds to students, consumers, and the general public. The Milotska Center of Exhibitions provides a space for artists to showcase their work globally. Culturally Arts Collective hopes to continue work in educating and promoting artists in years to come.
